

TIM PECORARO is a high-energy and fast-paced leader, communicator, and artist with no lack of humor, vision, passion or zeal. He approaches challenges by crafting unique solutions that get results and has the ability to ignite any group — by pairing keen insights with excellent delivery, imaginative word pictures, and vibrant illustrations.

Ask Tim what his "one word" is, and he will say “PEOPLE” — their personal and professional development as individuals and entrepreneurs, or as employees within a team-based organization. This people-centric focus leads him to found Uphill Strategies in 2017; A company that blends his greatest passion, his many years of experience, and the art of coaching to deliver dramatic results for individuals as well as businesses.

Believing that people’s current condition doesn’t match their emerging future (and to increase the reach of his inspirational leadership), Tim launched the weekly Podcast “Uphill Conversations” to help people. Knowing that everything in life worth having is "uphill", Tim is able to become listeners' "ride along partner" and offer regular encouragement through this medium.

Tim has launched multiple businesses, served on several different boards across the business and nonprofit sectors, and has invested in the Upstate, South Carolina community he calls home since his move from Connecticut in 1990. He is a Certified Coach with the John Maxwell Team under his long-time leadership hero and his mentor John Maxwell, and he and his wife have three amazing kids who inspire them daily.
