

ZACHARY BREWSTER

President and Chief Visionary Officer

KEYNOTE

The Problem is the People: Over 40,000 people have connected with this powerful message that reminds Leaders that their greatest potential can only be accomplished by focusing on their most valuable asset-People.

BIOGRAPHY

Companies spend millions of dollars attempting to find people, billions of dollars paying unproductive people, and millions of dollars litigating issues with formerly employed people. This creates a continuous cycle of chaos.

Zach Brewster helps organizations find their way out. He is the President and Chief Visionary Officer of the Bridge Builder, a consulting firm that specializes in cultivating culture and compelling leaders primarily in the area of conflict resolution.

During the past 15 years, he has aided hundreds of organizations in the area of leadership, management, talent acquisition, training, and workforce development.

He is the author of Change the Tire: Correcting, Communicating, and Continuing Company Culture, which is based on his featured TED Talk "The Problem Is the People." It compels leaders to resolve their issues with productivity, process, and profit by focusing on their people.
