

Jamal Tate

President, B.Y.E. LLC

Jamal is a graduate of Queens University of Charlotte, where he earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Organization Communication and minored in Business Leadership. Jamal studied Spanish abroad in Peru for a summer. Living out the motto “not to be served but to serve” Jamal created the nation’s first-ever Communities in Schools Alumni Chapter, lead his Collegiate 100 minority men’s group to national chapter of the year, and began a national speaking career. He has over eight years of public speaking experience combined with leadership development. Pulling from experiences in working with organizations such as the YMCA, Boys and Girls Club, and 4H. He is a professional life coach who’s been featured in Time Magazine, Wall Street Journal, and airports across the country. Jamal also has experience teaching drug, alcohol, and substance abuse classes. Today, Jamal serves as the President of B.Y.E., LLC, where he is responsible for business development and client relations. Locally, Jamal sits on the board of Communities in School North Carolina.
